

IIFA Secretariat General mourns H.E. Professor Ahmed Khaled Babeker

«Who, when disaster strikes them, say, "Indeed we belong to Allah, and indeed to Him we will return." Al-Baqara, 156 «Everyone upon the earth will perish, And there will remain the Face of your Lord, Owner of Majesty and Honor». Ar-Rahman, 26-27

Eight decades spent by our late father – may Allah have mercy on him – as a servant of the Noble Quran, the Pure Sunnah and Islamic jurisprudence. He spent his time as a teacher and educator for generations of students who savored his knowledge. He had time shortage due to his saturated schedule, yet was educated and polite in his manners. Our professor spent a large part of his eternal life in the service of universities, institutes and schools, and concluded his career with excellent and unforgettable services to the International Islamic Fiqh Academy as Secretary General. His Excellency worked night and day to advance the Academy, improve its performance, serve its causes, defend it and publicize it in events and conferences. May Allah reward him on behalf of the Academy, its members, experts and affiliates with the best of rewards.

Thus, we testify that our Sheikh was a pinnacle of humility in the defense of Islam and its nation, he was kind, peaceful to all, tolerant with anyone who dealt with him. He was full of confidence in his Creator and in his destiny, satisfied with his love for Allah, His Messenger (PBUH) and for the good.

Yes my Lord, yesterday we prayed farewell to great renown figures, and now we mourn again our father and teacher, H.E. Prof. Khaled Ahmed Babeker, tonight, Tuesday, to join the great men and scholars he longed for. May Allah gather him with them in the Abode of bliss. On behalf of the members, experts and affiliates of the Academy, and on my behalf, we express our deepest condolences to H.E. Sheikh Saleh bin Abdullah bin Humaid, President of the Academy, and his assistants for their generous solidarity with Prof. Khaled Babeker and his family, may Allah reward them on the Day of Judgement.

We also express our thanks and appreciation for the special care that our late Sheikh received during his treatment in Riyadh, from the wise leadership of the host country, may Allah reward them, in the name of our father and us, and all his admirers, with the best of rewards, and may He preserve security and stability in their country.

Finally, we, the children, students and admirers of our Sheikh, must raise our hands, day and night, to beseech the Noble Lord, to have mercy on our father, to forgive him and to welcome him into His vast paradise.

May Allah the Almighty reward everyone for their patience and inspire them, as well as our families and loved ones, with patience and solace for what the Most Merciful has decreed.

IIFA Statement on the Decision of the KSA to Allow a Limited Number of Pilgrims for this Hajj season

Praise be to Allah, Who said: "But whoever disbelieves – then indeed, Allah is free from need of the worlds." Al-Imran 97. Blessing and peace upon the Messenger of Allah who said: "There are no days in which a good deed is more pleasing to Allah than these ten days. O People increase during these days tasbeih, tahmid, tahlil, and takbir" (Tabarani).

The International Islamic Fiqh Academy, with its Presidency, Secretariat, members and experts, as they welcome the Hajj season of 1442 AH, recalls what Allah the Almighty, the Most Sublime, has bestowed upon the Ancient House (Kaaba) of great virtues in all times, for it is the His most beloved place, which is also considered the first in purity, safety, solemnity and stability.

Allah said: "And [mention] when We made the House a place of return for the people and [a place of] security. And take, [O believers], from the standing place of Abraham a place of prayer. And We charged Abraham and Ishmael, [saying], "Purify My House for those who perform Tawaf and those who are staying [there] for worship and those who bow and prostrate [in prayer]." Al-Baqarah: 125.

"And [mention, O Muhammad], when We designated for Abraham the site of the House, [saying], "Do not associate anything with Me and purify My House for those who perform Tawaf and those who stand [in prayer] and those who bow and prostrate." Al-Hajj: 26. "In it are clear signs [such as] the standing place of Abraham. And whoever enters it shall be safe." Al-Imran: 97

"Have they not seen that We made [Makkah] a safe sanctuary, while people are being taken away all around them? Then in falsehood do they believe, and in the favor of Allah they disbelieve?" Al-Ankabut: 67. The preservation of these characteristics of the House of Allah is one of the most essential duties, just as performing the duty of purification, ensuring safety and security, and glorifying the rituals are some of the most sacred and honourable duties throughout the ages. The perseverance in purifying the House of Allah by washing it, perfuming it, and keeping it free from epidemics, diseases, and filth is based on the provisions of Shariah and the realization of its objectives. It is also a commitment to the most honourable deeds, the best acts of worship, and the highest forms of obedience to Allah.

The world is going through an exceptional health emergency due to the unprecedented spread of the coronavirus pandemic, which has spread fear and panic everywhere, killed millions of souls, disrupted traffic and travel between countries, and has widely affected all aspects of life. Despite the enormous scientific and practical efforts that governments and nations are making to combat this pandemic and prevent its spread, the bitter truth is that the pandemic has not yet been controlled, and it continues to spread in many countries. Its strains mutate, and its waves intensify from time to time. On the premise that the Kingdom, which Allah has honoured by entrusting it with the Two Holy Mosques, has provided the best means of comfort, security and safety for the pilgrims and visitors who come to these blessed lands every year to perform their rituals with ease that surpasses all description, And given the confidence of the Ummah's jurists, scholars, and thinkers, worldwide, in the sincerity and dedication of the wise Saudi leadership to protect and preserve these holy places, Also given the precision and wisdom that characterized the decision taken by the Saudi leadership to prevent the spread of the pandemic, as a fulfillment of their responsibility before their Lord the Almighty, and following the teachings of our religion, and fulfilling their responsibility before history.

The Academy, takes this opportunity to reassure the Muslim countries and communities around the world that the decision taken by the Saudi government to allow just a limited number of citizens and residents to perform Hajj in this year 1442 H, is an effective, appropriate, and firm decision. The Academy also confirms that this decision is wise and in line with the primarily provisions of Shariah and that it realizes its supreme objectives, namely those of preserving religion and human lives. Hence, the proper management of Hajj, which is the fifth pillar of Islam, aims at safeguarding faith and human lives by allowing a limited number of people to perform Hajj this year due to the prevailing health conditions.

Furthermore, the International Islamic Fiqh Academy, which is the world's leading jurisprudential reference for Muslim countries and communities, calls on Muslims around the world to respect this well-established decision, and also calls on pilgrims -may Allah aid them in performing this duty appropriately – to fully adhere to the health guidelines and precautionary measures taken by competent authorities during the Hajj.

Finally, the Academy, takes this opportunity to express its sincere thanks and appreciation for the great and tireless efforts exerted by the Government of the Kingdom, under the leadership of the Custodian of the Two Holy Mosques, King Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud, and his loyal Crown Prince, Prince Mohammed bin Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Defense, may Allah sustain them, in the development of the two Holy Mosques and the services given to pilgrims and visitors.

May Allah reward with the best of rewards. May He bless them with security, safety, and stability. May He accept the Hajj of the pilgrims, forgive their sins, and make their Hajj an ever-blessed act.

H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano delivers a lecture on the Structure of Contextual and Contemporary Jurisprudence at Nahdlatul Ulama Society in Jakarta

Prof. Saeed Aqil Siraj, Executive President of the Indonesian Nahdlatul Ulama Society, received H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy, on Wednesday 28 Shawal 1442, corresponding to 9 June 2021, at the Society's headquarters in Jakarta.

The Executive President of Nahdlatul Ulama, expressed his deep thanks and appreciation to His Excellency for his visit and his generous approval to give a public lecture on "the Structure of Contextual and Contemporary Jurisprudence", commending in this regard the academic position of H.E. among those who have known him closely or read some of his books on Ijtihad, Ifta and Islamic finance. His Eminence also assured H.E. that Nahdlatul Ulama adopts an approach of moderation and temperance in Ijtihad and ifta; and rejects all forms of extremism and terrorism. He also highlighted the achievements of the Society, which is the largest Islamic association in the world, with more than 20,000 institutes, dozens of universities, hospitals, rehabilitation, and training centers throughout the Republic of Indonesia, which is a home of 300 million citizens, of which nearly 90% are Muslims. His Eminence concluded his speech by expressing the Society's willingness to cooperate and establish partnerships with the Academy, especially concerning raising the scientific and intellectual level of the Fatwa and the Advisory Committee within the association. Then, he opened the floor for H.E. to give the public lecture on the Structure of Contextual and Contemporary Jurisprudence and its Benefit on the Ummah. He told H.E. that between 15 and 20 million people were listening to his lecture via the Society's television and social networks.

For his part, the Secretary General of the Academy expressed his profound thanks and appreciation for the warm welcome and hospitality and praised the outstanding scientific efforts and remarkable practical achievements that the Society has made and continues to make since its foundation nearly a hundred years ago. His Excellency also congratulated the Executive Director and the Executive Council members for their keen interest in education and purification, which have had the most significant impact on preserving the Islamic identity in the Indonesian archipelago, which counts more than seven thousand islands. His Excellency presented a brief overview of the Academy, its history, vision, mission, and objectives, and endorsed cooperation and coordination with the Society, especially in promoting moderation, Ijtihad, and Ifta on contemporary calamities and developments.

His Excellency, then, started by presenting the lecture's terminology, which discussed the importance for the faqih (Muslim jurist) to drain his scientific and intellectual energy to achieve a solid, flexible, and consistent understanding of legal texts. His Excellency also explained that one of the most important characteristics of Shariah is that of the flexibility, capacity, comprehensiveness, and stability and that these characteristics as a whole confirm the eternal nature of Shariah and its applicability for every time and place. In other words, without the flexibility of the texts of the Shariah and the breadth of its provisions, it would not have the strength today to explain legal provisions suitable for the issues and problems of contemporary life.

Thus, Islamic jurisprudence, which is an authentic understanding of Shariah texts, is contextual jurisprudence based on the consideration of contexts, clues, and signs. It is a realistic jurisprudence as it is based on an accurate understanding of the texts and a sober recognition of the facts to choose the ruling appropriate for each incident according to time and place. This jurisprudence is characterized by avoiding the abandonment of ready-made rulings affected by time and place on facts that differ in time and place. This jurisprudence also aims to prevent the importation of fatwas intended to be used in different events and different realities and environments. Moreover, H.E. pointed out that there are fixed rulings that do not change with time and place and are characterized by being stated in definitive texts in terms of significance and proofs, known as the fundamentals and constants on which all Muslims agree. H.E. called for not neglecting these rulings under the pretext of revivalism and Ijtihad, as they do not require a new Ijtihad for understanding for their clarity and plainness, and which also include the foundations of belief, the pillars of Islam, the pillars of faith and Ihsan, the virtues, and boundaries and higher purposes of Shariah.

H.E. concluded his lecture by inviting the Nahdlatul Ulama to move forward by pursuing their emphasis on education, learning and purification, describing these three as the safety valve, the basis of stability, and ensuring progress and development at all times and places.

In response to the invitation of the Indonesian Minister of Finance to the Secretary General of the Academy to visit Jakarta to discuss ways and means of improving cooperation and communication between the Academy and Indonesian Islamic financial institutions, the Central Bank of Indonesia organized a consultative meeting with H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy, on Thursday 29 Shawal 1442, corresponding to 10 June 2021, at the headquarters of the Central Bank in the capital of Indonesia, Jakarta.

On his part, Her Excellency, the Finance Minister, sent her greetings and thanks to the Secretary General, as well as her apologies for not being able to attend this meeting, given her official meetings outside the capital.

His Excellency then expressed his aspiration to establish a lasting partnership between the Academy and the Indonesian Ministry of Finance, the Central Bank of Indonesia and the Indonesian Islamic Economy Association to advance Islamic economy and finance in Indonesia and to push forward Islamic financial institutions that have started to pave their strong way in a country with an estimated population of 300 million, of which Muslims constitute about 90% of the population. There is, therefore, an urgent need to strengthen the Islamic financial industry, develop the performance of its institutions and enable them to keep pace and participate in economic growth and social welfare. To achieve this, the Academy should provide intellectual and legal support by cooperating in the joint organization of conferences, seminars, and round tables on contemporary Islamic finance's various themes and issues.

For his part, the Secretary General of the Academy thanked the Indonesian Minister of Finance, the Governor of the Central Bank, and the Indonesian Islamic Economic Association members, welcoming their invitation and supporting their efforts in strengthening the Islamic financial industry in Indonesia. His Excellency praised the outstanding developments witnessed by the Islamic financial industry in Indonesia due to the unprecedented support of the Minister and the administrative staff working with him, including the members of the Association.

Aiming for further development and progress, His Excellency suggested to the Ministry and the Association that the Republic of Indonesia should take the initiative to consider Jakarta as the capital of Islamic social finance in the world, following the benchmark of other cities known today as the capital of Islamic finance and Awqaf, such as Manama, Kuala Lumpur and Dubai and Kuwait.

His Excellency concluded his speech by reiterating the Academy's approval to participate in the activities of the Islamic Sharia Week, which the Indonesian Islamic Economics Association will organize in October this year. He stressed that this major event will be a special opportunity to kick off Jakarta as the new capital of Islamic social finance.

The meeting was attended by H.E. Omar Zuhair Hafez, Special Advisor to the Secretary General, Mrs. Sarah Amjad Hussein, Director of Family and Women Affairs, and Mr. Khaled Al Ahmadi, Head of Staff Affairs at the Academy.

Central Council of Al-Muhammadiyah receives the Secretary General in Jakarta

Mr. Haider Naseer, Executive Chairman of the Central Council of the Indonesian Al-Muhammadiyah Association, accompanied with the Central Committee's members, received H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the International Islamic Fiqh Academy, and the accompanying delegation on Thursday, 30 Shawal 1442 corresponding to 11 June 2021, at the headquarters of Al-Muhammadiyah Association in Jakarta.

The Executive Chairman of the Association expressed his thanks and gratitude to the Secretary-General of the Academy for his visit to the headquarters of the Association and for meeting with the members of the Central Committee to discuss ways to improve cooperation between the two organizations. He pointed out that the Association, which has more than 30 million registered members, believes in diligence, renewal and openness, and rejects dependence, imitation and exclusion. It also has hundreds of hospitals, clinics, universities, dozens of banks and more than five thousand schools and institutes and is very active in charity and social work. The Association adopts the method of preaching through good behaviour and good deeds instead of limiting itself to empty words, making it popular among intellectuals and thinkers of all kinds. He also mentioned the free medical services provided by the Association during the coronavirus pandemic, as tens of thousands of people infected by Covid-19 were treated and many families were provided with subsidies during the pandemic. He explained that there is an important and influential place for women scholars and thinkers within the Association under the women's wing named "Aisha Association", as they raise awareness, educate, and fight reactionary ideas that try to exclude women from active participation in social, political, economic and intellectual life. It also fights against the thoughts and allegations of feminist movements that try to erase social values and principles under the pretext of freedom and liberation.

Therefore, the Association looks forward to cooperating closely with the Academy in terms of academic support to clarify the Shariah provisions on contemporary issues.* On his part, H.E. Prof. Koutoub Sano expressed his sincere thanks to Mr. Haider Naseer, Executive Chairman and the Central Committee's members, commending the tremendous educational efforts and social services provided by the Association for more than a hundred years. H.E. also praised the great importance the Association attaches to education, primarily vocational and academic education, such as running more than a hundred universities and hundreds of hospitals is certainly no small task.

H.E. pointed out that the Academy considers Ijtihad as a permanent legislative source that no one can close or open because Allah and His Messenger (PBUH), have legislated and encouraged it. Allah has set aside two prizes for those who struggle hard and render a right judgment, and one prize for those who struggle hard and issues a wrong judgment. Therefore, the Academy bases its Shariah resolutions on an authentic Ijtihad and fully believes in the importance of revival with its rules and methods. H.E. concluded his speech by emphasizing the willingness of the Secretariat General to cooperate with the Association, especially with the thinkers and scholars, members of the women's wing "Aisha Association" to participate in the Academy's sessions, conferences, and symposiums. He also affirmed that the Academy was ready to jointly organize specialized seminars and workshops for women thinkers and scholars within the OIC Member States. International Institute of Islamic Thought (IIIT) hosts a lecture by H.E. Prof. Koutoub Sano on Reform and Renewal

At the kind invitation of the Regional Office of the International Institute of Islamic Thought in Southeast Asia, H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy delivered a lecture entitled "Introduction to Reform and Renewal" on Sunday, 25 Shawal 1442 corresponding to 6 June 2021. This lecture was held within the framework of the institute's training and leadership program called the Summer Camp.

His Excellency started his lecture by expressing his thanks for the esteemed outreach efforts made by the founding generation of the International Institute of Islamic Thought, led by the great thinkers Dr. Abdul Hamid Abu Suleiman, Dr. Ahmed Totonji, Dr. Hisham Al-Talib, Dr. Omar Kasouli, Mr. Anwar Ibrahim and those who have been involved in the development of the Institute, and passed away before them to the House of Abode, Allah willing, such as Dr. Ismail Al-Farouqi, Dr. Jamal Barzanji, Dr. Taha Jaber Al-Alwani, Dr. Mona Abu Al-Fadl, Hamad Hajj Belkacem and others. These thinkers understood very early on that the complex crises that the Islamic Ummah and the whole world are currently suffering from are essentially an intellectual crisis, while the other economic, political, cultural and educational crises are in fact repercussions and manifestations of the original crisis, which is the crisis of the Muslim mind, as the title of one of Dr. Abu Suleiman's books published in the beginning of this century indicates. His Excellency used it to refer to the fact that the International Institute of Islamic Thought is a reference for reform and renewal thinking at the level of institutions inside and outside the Muslim world.

His Excellency then addressed the analysis and approximation of the meaning of the terms reform and renewal, stressing the importance of knowing the meaning of these two terms before entering into the conference details. Meanwhile, he stressed that the term reform is the opposite of the terms: corruption and corruptibility, and also means that reform is a serious attempt to eliminate corruption, the fact, and end corruption, the result. In other words, corruption and corruptibility are an emergency that is not original and must be removed and eliminated in order to bring things back to their natural state before corruption can infiltrate them, for example, lying is corruption, laziness is corruption, and cheating is corruption, etc.

The elimination of these corruptions is called reformation, i.e. the return of everyone to what they were before, i.e. justice, honesty, work, etc.

It is a disease and an evil that must be cured, and its remedy is reform. As for renewal, it is a matter of eliminating corruption and continuing the march of development to become again what it was in the beginning. Thought, character and behavior are affected by corruption as are clothes, house and home, and restoring all these to their original state is called renewal.

As for the cause of wear and tear, it is due to the house owner who neglects maintenance and fails in his duty to repair. Therefore, reform and renewal are complementary, closely related and intertwined.

If we look at the reality of the Ummah and the world, we see that reform is necessary because of the abundance of corruption in all its forms. There is corruption in the economy, in human society and in politics. There is corruption in thought, behavior and morals, and there is no stability, security or prosperity without reform. It is necessary to renew thought and methodology to be able to resist, overcome and repel corruption.

Then, His Excellency clarified that the work of a person who advocates reform is similar to that of a doctor, because the reformer is in fact a doctor, and it is known that the doctor does not provide a medical prescription before examining the patient and determining the type of disease and the appropriate medicine for him, therefore, the reformer must do with the same task as the doctor, starting with identifying the reality of corruption, its cause and its roots in order to determine the appropriate treatment for it, taking into account the degree of time necessary for effective treatment.

Therefore, any reform that does not proceed from this approach, will not bear fruit and will not be successful. His Excellency also mentioned the importance for the reformer to have a lot of knowledge, dreams, wisdom and firmness, stressing that science is the basis of reform and renewal and that no one can practice it if he is not aware of the reality of corruption, its degree and its roots. He cannot determine the appropriate treatment if he is also ignorant, and in this regard must be patient and not rush, just like a doctor who gives the patient a medicine in prolonged doses.

His Excellency also explained that the word of the Almighty: "Invite to the way of your Lord with wisdom and good instruction, and argue with them in a way that is best." relates the most important pillars of reform, the foundations of dawah, and the pillars of renewal. The reformer's commitment, renovator and caller to wisdom, good exhortation and argument with kindness is a safety valve, a guarantee and a sign of success. Therefore, it is necessary for all those who want to carry out this eternal divine mission to adhere to these foundations and start from them to achieve the desired goals and objectives of reform, renewal and dawah.

His Excellency concluded his lecture by reiterating the call not to import ready-made solutions and to abandon experiments on contradictory facts. There is no more detrimental to reform, change and renewal than the scourge of generalization and abandonment, haste and haste. Be like a doctor if you want to be a successful reformer, and a brilliant one. Get to know the facts in which you live, know the means of reform and renewal available, and above all know the reality of corruption, its roots and causes, and then arm yourself with the aforementioned foundations. Thus, His Excellency concluded his one-and-a-half-hour lecture by answering questions asked by the participants from Southeast Asian countries.

At the Annual Islamic Awqaf Conference, the Secretary General of the Academy calls for a Better Awareness of Monetary Waqf

H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy participated on Thursday 7 Dhul al-Qi'dah 1442 corresponding to 17 June 2021, in the third session of the Islamic Awqaf Conference organized by the Makkah Chamber of Commerce and Industry under the slogan "Make a Waqf... that lasts forever!". In the opening session, His Excellency spoke about the importance of Waqf and its place in Islam, stressing that it is one of the eternal and most significant aspects of Islam, and pointed out that poverty is a severe social disease and an economic problem; this is why Shariah has established multiple specialized institutions to deal with this disease. Among the most important of these renowned institutions are Zakat, Awqaf, Wills, Compensation, and Vows, known in the present era as Islamic social finance. His Excellency also stated that the advancement of these institutions requires more studies and scientific research to develop their performance and modernize the bodies that supervise them to make them effective and competent.

His Excellency noted that the themes of this year's session of the Islamic Conference on Awqaf are to be welcomed and appreciated, as they will provide practical treatments and mature scientific recommendations to improve the governance mechanisms of Awqaf, achieve the organization and development of these institutions, as well as to improve the awareness of society about their religious, social, economic, and developmental importance. He said that it is also hoped that this session will come up with a good set of scientific solutions and practical and organizational measures to face the challenges, calamities and developments facing Awqaf soberly.

His Excellency concluded his speech by calling for the promotion of awareness, attention, and care for monetary Waqf of all types and forms, as it is a qualitative leap in diversifying the fields of Awqaf to include Waqf in money as well as Waqf of rights, profits, and also to include Waqf in cash, temporary, and permanent.

Regarding the Waqf of money, His Excellency explained that it has multiple forms, and one of its most important contemporary forms is the financial investment Waqf, which is intended to endow certain sums of money to a financial investment institution for a certain period in order for this institution to invest this money speculatively or jointly. This will make profits paid to Awqaf banks determined by the Waqf to finance the construction of a mosque or a hospital, or else.

Another contemporary type of Waqf of money is what is called today the Waqf of cash loan, in which money is placed in special Waqf Funds in order to lend it to those who need productive capital, so that they take what they need from the money in these funds on the condition that they return it as per the agreement, so that the funds lend the same money again for other people in need, without the Waqf or the doers having a conditional return of this loan. Some banking institutions practice this type of loan called credit banks, but most take on a conditional and predetermined interest. This is forbidden as it is unanimously forbidden usury, and it is interest on debt like any loan that brings a conditional profit, which is called bank interest or usurious interest.

For about an hour, His Excellency answered the participants' questions regarding the applications of the monetary Waqf and its importance in the current era.

International Islamic University of Malaysia (IIUM) hosts the Secretary General of the Academy at the International Symposium on Cultural Intelligence and the Future of Education

H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy, participated in the International Symposium entitled Cultural Intelligence: Towards Promoting Institutional Excellence, on Monday 4 Dhul al-Qi'dah 1442, corresponding to 14 June 2021, via video conference.

At the beginning of his speech, His Excellency pointed out that cultural intelligence is one of the current issues that deserves to be studied and researched further. He stressed the importance of cultural intelligence in achieving integration and coexistence based on mutual respect, tolerance, and openness. The power of this type of intelligence lies in the ability of the individual to establish distinct relationships with other bearers of a culture different from his or her own, through his or her untiring quest for understanding, appreciation, and respect for the culture of the other, rising above and refraining from monopolizing the other's culture, depreciating it or underestimating it.

The diversity and the plurality of cultures are among Allah's graces and signs, for the Almighty said: (O mankind, indeed We have created you from male and female and made you peoples and tribes that you may know one another. Indeed, the most noble of you in the sight of Allah is the most righteous of you. Indeed, Allah is Knowing and Acquainted.) Al-Hujurat 13. The Almighty also said: "And of His signs is the creation of the heavens and the earth and the diversity of your languages and your colors. Indeed in that are signs for those of knowledge." Al-Rum 22.

The first verse is seen as a confirmation and consolidation of the supreme and ultimate goal of human diversity and cultural pluralism, which is knowledge, integration and communication. As for the second verse demonstrates that the language plurality and differences, as well as the cultural plurality and difference, is a sign of Allah in creation. Therefore, the discourse on cultural intelligence is an important discourse in the search for a better knowledge of the importance of cultural pluralism and how to use it in a positive way.

This topic becomes more important as it confirms the failure of arrogant attempts of some to apply globalization to everything in life, especially culture; however, in reality, it is in no way possible to globalize culture, which is an essential part of the intellectual and sensory formation of the human being, because culture is the expression of the intimacy that characterizes societies. Its globalization is nothing but the domination over the other and the miserable imposition of a limited and coercive culture. On the contrary, we must make the most of the pluralism of cultural and ethnic diversity, as proof of the Creator's greatness and power, to achieve integration, rapprochement, coexistence, and tolerance among human beings at all times and places.

His Excellency pointed out that it is not surprising that the proponents of cultural globalization have failed because their call is based on contempt, arrogance, and complacency, while the world is more than ever turned towards tolerance, acceptance of the other and coexistence. He also indicated that the desired education today should be a balanced education that combines the spiritual and physical sides, the theoretical intellectual side and the practical behavioural side, and the concern for the things of this world and the preparation for the hereafter.

The more balanced is education, the more it paves the way for a greater youth generation characterized by moderation, integrity, equality, and coexistence. It rejects arrogance, domination, depreciation, and corruption on earth. A balanced education gives the learner humility, modesty and the ability to treat well those who differ with him in belief and culture, as well as the ability to seek aspects and areas of integration with the other and coexist with him, in order to work together in the development of the universe and achieve happiness and stability for all mankind.

His Excellency concluded his speech by praising the International Islamic University of Malaysia for adopting the principle of integrating science and knowledge and balancing between body and mind through the formulation of balanced programs that makes the learner proud of his or her religion and culture, recognizes the other's right to life, respects his religion and culture, and open to the other who is different in his thinking and culture. He will also be able to engage positively with the societies in which he lives based on his firm belief that the world and the hereafter are complementary and not mutually exclusive, and that the soul and the body are mutually supportive and not mutually exclusive, and that cultures are equal and that there is no preference for one culture over another, for there is no culture superior and better than another.

Islamic Cooperation Youth Forum hosts the Secretary General of the Academy in its Annual Program of the Diplomacy Academy

As part of its annual program of the Diplomacy Academy, the Islamic Cooperation Youth Forum hosted on Friday 8 Dhul al-Qi'dah 1442 AH corresponding to 18 June 2021, H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy, and H.E. Prof. Azza Karam, Secretary General of Religions for Peace, during the second session on faith and diplomacy.

The Secretary General of the Academy began his speech by explaining the importance of faith in human life and society as a fundamental source of guidance and direction, and for being the first reference for distinguishing the good from evil in ideas and opinions, and in acts and actions.

His Excellency explained that the greatest goal of successful diplomacy is to improve cooperation, integration, and communication between peoples and resolve differences and conflicts between them. Therefore, diplomacy as a tool and methodology of treatment must be based on and inspired by faith to know the effective means that must be employed to achieve its objective. In other words, since faith is a source of noble virtues and high morality such as honesty, mercy, kindness, righteousness, integrity and others, successful diplomacy must start from these virtues and morals and abide by them when mediating and bringing people together and settling disputes and conflicts.

Therefore, today's world urgently needs calm diplomacy that evokes the values of honesty, kindness, mercy, justice and moderation in negotiation and communication; for the more diplomacy adheres to these values, the more happiness, stability, and security are achieved, so unrest and instability are reduced, conflicts and disputes disappear, and vice versa. This means that the absence of these diplomatic values and virtues makes it rigid diplomacy that does not achieve the desired goal but rather becomes a cause of disputes, unrest and conflicts between peoples and nations.

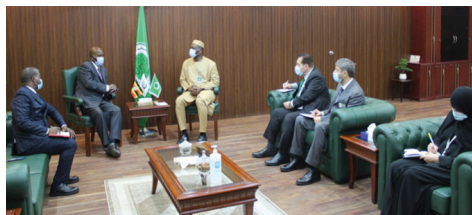

For her part, Prof. Azza Karam spoke about the importance of concerted efforts and integration of forces of all religions to end conflicts and disputes, noting that the desired stability is the stability of all, and the desired security is the security of all. She stated that some peoples and nations cannot enjoy security and safety without those of other peoples of the world; therefore, it is necessary to fight against calls and slogans that call for racism, intolerance, and segregation among peoples.

Both speakers answered questions from the participants for nearly two hours, and the session received an excellent reception and a distinguished follow-up.
